

As you enter the property from the curved driveway with overhanging trees, there is a parking lot to your right. This lot is reserved for those who are not planning to stay the night. Beyond this lot is a fork in the road. The upper left road goes to the dwellings and will be closed. As you drive slowly to the lower right driveway, passed the garden to your right, there is a road to your right towards a bridge across the creek. There is a parking lot over the bridge intended for those who choose to camp on the wild side of the property. If have an RV or van or plan to find camping other places, continue along the lower road passed the other garden on your right and the main house on your left. There is a large field over the small wooden bridge that will be used as parking and RV/van camping. The festival grounds entrance is across from the green house along the lower road.
